Carmel Hill Freeway Bids Opened

The State Division of Highways today opened bids for construction of about 0.9 mile of four-lane freeway on State Sign Route 1 between Carpenter Street near Carmel and the south city limits of Monterey at the intersection with Viejo Road.

Fisher and Stokes Construction Company, San Gabriel, is the lowest of nine bidders, with a bid of $969,246.90. Construction is expected to start in February.

The project consists of constructing 0.9 mile of 4-lane, plant-mixed surfaced freeway within the above limits and reconstruction and realignment of portions of San Luis Avenue, Aguajito Road, Seventeen-Mile Drive, Sunridge Road and the Carmel-Pacific Grove highway, also surfaced with plant-mixed surfacing.

A freeway interchange will be constructed at the intersection of the Carmel-Pacific Grove highway with Highway 1, which will carry Carmel-Pacific Grove traffic over the new freeway. A two-lane, 138-foot long reinforced concrete girder bridge and necessary access ramps make up the interchange.

While construction is in progress, through traffic on Highway 1 will have available for use a minimum of two 10-foot travel lanes in each direction at all times, except for occasional construction opera-

Hearing On Slander Suit Against Mayor Set For Tomorrow

The hearing on the demurrer filed by City Attorney John Morse in John J. Walsh's $50,000 slander suit against Mayor John Chitwood has been set for tomorrow, 10:00 o'clock, in Superior Court in Salinas before Judge Anthony Brazil.

Walsh bases his suit on a comment allegedly made by Mayor Chitwood in an appeal before the city council on July 9 at which Walsh charges the mayor with saying he "regards it a breach of faith on the part of the seller."

Walsh had sold a lot to Irma Barnes through a real estate dealer, May Youngberg, which the Carmel Planning Commission had refused to declare a building site, and Miss Barnes' appeal from the planning commission's decision was heard July 9 before the city council and denied. Walsh had previously been denied a building permit for the same property.

Walsh has also asked $10,000 damages against the City of Carmel, charging that the denial of a building site for the lot as motivated by malice, and he has asked superior court for a writ of mandate declaring the property a legal building site.

City Attorney Morse maintains that the mayor has the right of free comment during the time the council is in session when his remarks are privileged. The city is liable only as provided in the state code and Walsh's action does not come under any of the provisions of the state code. Since Walsh is no longer the owner of the lot, he is not the person to ask superior court to declare the property a

Excelentisima Maria Field Builds Museum At Mission And New Home In Carmel

BY RAYLYN PENNEY

A new museum and a home based on traditional lines of a formal Spanish country home will be dedicated in Carmel this spring, the additions to the community of Excelentisima Maria Antonia Ana Field, a new resident of Carmel, but an old friend.

Lady Field, native of Monterey and granddaughter of one of the most distinguished families of California's brilliant Spanish era, says the nine-room two-story house under construction at Rio Road and Santa Lucia near the mission is a modified copy of the Monterey home of the Munras family (now Hotel Casa Munras) which in turn was copied from her family's ancestral dwelling in Barcelona, Spain.

Nearer to completion is the small museum structure Miss Field has had built in the quadrangle of Carmel Mission San Carlos Borromeo. It will become diocesan property, open to the public, and will house some of the most historically interesting of Miss Field's vast store of family mementoes and heirlooms.

Construction of the museum is in charge of Miss Field's long-time friend, Harry Downie. Architect for the new home, to be called Torre Munras, is Dennis Beatty of San Francisco. Harold Geyer is the builder.

Among items of Californiana to be included in the museum will be, according to Miss Field, several of the possessions of her great grandmother's stepfather, Dr. Manuel Quixano, ninth and last surgeon-general under the Spanish regime here.

These include the ancient scales on which he weighed prescriptions, the chair from his office in the old Royal Presidio, and the cedar box in which he kept medical instruments. A captain in the Spanish Army, Dr. Quixano served as surgeon-general from 1807 to 1823, and remained for two additional years under Mexican rule, so great was his popularity and indispensibility.

Planners Face Policy Decision On Motel Pool

The landscape committee maintained a discreet silence at the Carmel Planning Commission's study session yesterday afternoon when Tom Perry, attorney for Charles Schultz, filed changes in plans for the motel Schultz is building at Fifth and Junipero (old Bettie Greene Stable property).

Schultz now wishes to include a 14 x 24 foot swimming pool at the north end of the property on the Junipero frontage.

The plans as originally approved provided for 100 per cent off street parking, 17 per cent landscaping, an entrance on both Junipero and on Fifth. Schultz would eliminate the Junipero street entrance, Perry said. There would still be one hundred per cent off street parking and "17 per cent landscaping if you count part of the pool as landscaping." He added that if the commission wished, the pool would be screened from the street by a high fence.

When Perry asked what their wishes would be in the fencing proposal, the landscape committee said they would have to study the entire matter and bring in a report at the regular meeting of the commission next Wednesday.

Under the interim zoning ordinance, the planning commission has power to consider part of a swimming pool as fulfilling landscape requirements or they can insist that by landscaping they mean plantings and screening shrubs, not pools. In their broad powers under the 1958 amendment to the interim zoning ordinance, on future plans, they can require so much site devoted to landscaping that they can make motel swimming pools economically impractical. Their decision next Wednesday will be more than a decision on the Schultz plan. It will be a policy move that can change the face of Carmel because it will affect all motels that are to come.

The question that the planning commission will have to resolve between now and Wednesday is: Do Carmelites, as they walk along the pine-lined streets of their business district, want to gaze upon motel pools, striped umbrellas, chrome pool furniture and bathers reclining therein? Do they want this resort atmosphere in the

Planner Lists 11 "Only Fair" Sites For Post Office

Hugh Smith, chairman of the Carmel Planning Commission's committee to locate desirable post office sites, reported at yesterday's commission study session that he had found 23 locations, 11 of which are "fair;" four possible and eight poor. None rate good, and only three of the 11 fair meet all the post office standards, he said.

The post office requires 11,000 square feet floor space, 750 ramp and loading, 6,000 parking, access on two streets and central location. Smith said the planning commission should ask that the site should fill additional requirements: location favorable for new business development, central location for residents who walk for their mail, property that is not too steep in topography or real estate value.

The planning commission made no comment after his report on the 11 sites. They will list them offi-

Youth Center Asks For $15,000 Crosby Funds To Enlarge Auditorium

P.A. McCreery, chairman of the Carmel Youth Center Adult Board, mailed a letter today to Peter Ferrante, chairman of the Crosby Fund, requesting $15,000 to cover building costs of extending the Carmel Youth Center auditorium.

A large part of the money realized from the Annual Bing Crosby Pro-Amateur Golf Championship is set aside for construction and improvement of Peninsula youth centers.

Several years after its completion in 1950, the Carmel Youth Center outgrew its auditorium where movies and dances are held. Since the addition of Carmel Valley to the Carmel Unified School District, which opened youth center membership to Valley young people, the situation has become acute, according to Jack Giles, director.

The youth center adult board has worked out plans which provide for three feet additional floor space along the west side of the building and about 20 feet extension on the south. The city-owned lot on which the youth center is built provides enough space for an additional three feet on the west side of the building without encroaching on adjacent city property. The south extension will require utilization of part of the 40-foot city lot at the rear of the auditorium. Mayor John Chitwood and city council members, though they have not had an opportunity

Carmel Schools Announce Christmas Music Programs

Sunset School choir under the direction of Louise Fenn will sing carols for the community on December 18 at 8:00 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium. The choristers will be on stage this year before a stained glass window set. Two student narrators will tell briefly of the country of origin of each carol and the customs of the people. The customary tableau of Mary and the creche will be featured during one carol.

The Sunset student program is Carmel's oldest traditional community Christmas program.

Woods and River Schools are planning no public Christmas programs but each school will have a student assembly during which pupils will sing carols.

John Farr, music instructor at the High School, will present the school choir, boys' quartet and an

Peter Mawdsley Progressing After Serious Operation

Former City Clerk Peter Mawdsley is progressing after emergency surgery, according to this morning's report from his physician.

He was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital on Monday morning in the Red Cross ambulance operated by Carmel Fire Department volunteers and was operated on the same day.

Mr. Mawdsley retired in 1956 after 18 years of service to the city of Carmel, 13 years as city clerk and five years as deputy clerk. He and his wife, Lucie, who assisted him in his work for some of this time, won the lasting and affectionate regard of the community which is watching Peter's progress with deep concern.

LOBO RESERVES CLIP CARMEL VARSITY

Led by Jerry Millette, ex-Pacific Grove High cage star, the Monterey Peninsula College reserves came from behind to outscore the Carmel High varsity, 42 to 31, in Saturday night's preliminary to the Sequoia-MPC practice game. Millette, a sizzling 5-7 ball-handling whiz, chipped in with 20 points to take scoring honors for the game and provide the difference between the two teams. The Padres behind the fine shooting of Bill Hicks and Dale Dawson enjoyed an 18-15 lead at the end of the first half but ran into dry spells during the second half while the red-hot Millette closed the gap and pushed the Lobos in front. Superior rebounding by center Whaley gave the Lobos control of both backboards despite the valiant effort turned in by Russ Wise, Carmel's fast-improving pivotman.

Wise played a smooth floor game for the Padres and looks to be one of the best hoop prospects in the CCAL B-division. Hitting the score column for Carmel were Bill Hicks (11), Dale Dawson (10), Frank Wallace (3), Craig Smith (2) and Russ Wise (5). Also seeing action and picking up valuable game experience were Walt Helm, David Farr, Dennis Peavey, Lee Harms, Chris Wilkin; Pete Wilcox and John Wilkin.

Next basketball action at the Carmel gym is slated for December 19 when the San Lorenzo Cougars challenge the Padres in lightweight and varsity games.

PADRE CAGERS AT GUSTINE TOURNAMENT THIS WEEK END

Coach Dan Yurkovich takes his highly-regarded Carmel High varsity hoop squad to Gustine this afternoon for three days' action in the popular Gustine Invitational Tournament. In tonight's 6:00 o'clock game, the Padres tangle with Los Banos, winners of the 1957 Gustine tourney. Reports from the San Joaquin Valley indicate Coach Pederson's Los Banos crew is not as strong as last year's championship aggregation which breezed through the tournament. Most of the Padres are experienced tournament hands with Bill Hicks and Dale Dawson taking their third shot in the Gustine hoop festival. Dale made the All-Tournament team as a sophomore and should be tough to handle as a mature senior. Rounding out the starting five against Los Banos will be junior Russ Wise at center, Dennis Peavey at one guard spot and lefthanded Frank Wallace at the other backline spot. Since reserve strength is doubly important in tournament play, Carmel's strong bench will give them a good hand in the grueling three-day test. Ready for duty will be seniors Pete Wilcox, Walt Helm, Lee Harms, Craig Smith and David Farr with sophomores Chris and John Wilkin. The Padre hoopsters leave for Gustine at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon and will make their headquarters at the Gustine Hotel while waiting for tournament action.

Other games on tonight's schedule at Gustine find Patterson and Hilmar squaring off at 4:30 o'clock, Newman and LeGrand taking the floor at 7:30 o'clock and host Gustine tackling Hughson in the 9:00 o'clock tilt.

SEQUOIA GIANTS TOP LOBOS 56 TO 46

A flashy band of Sequoia College hoopsters packed too much rebound strength for the comparatively small Lobo squad at the Carmel High gym last Saturday night and handed the MPC lads their first loss of the current season.

Coach Pete Peletta's scrappy cagers put up a good battle all the way but couldn't match the superior rebounding of the big Giants. Ahead 25-24 at the half, the hustling Lobos fell behind midway of the second half and saw the visitors take a commanding lead with the final reading 56-46. Sequoia's Bill Waimerdam was high scorer for the game, hitting for 20 markers from his forward position. Using his 6-5 height to good advantage, Waimerdam picked up most of his points via the tip-in route. Ray Moore's 11 points was tops for the Lobos with Wimberly hitting for nine and Lopez and Russo getting seven each.

YOUTH CENTER IN MONTEREY CAGE TOURNAMENT

The Carmel Youth Center basketball team got off to a good start in the Monterey Recreation Tournament Monday night by clipping the Elks Club, 56 to 48, as Charley Dawson and Dick Jennings turned in good scoring efforts for the YC club. Coach Jack Giles has a pretty solid ball club casting off for the Youth Center with eight former Carmel High Padres on the roster.

In addition to Dawson and Jennings, the popular teen-age play spot is represented by lanky Bob Durbrow, Fred Bruggeman, Mal Burdis, Robin Way, David Gray and Art Wilkerson.

After completing play in the Monterey Rec tournament the Youth Center squad will join the Peninsula Youth Center League which encompasses Monterey, Seaside, Pacific Grove and Carmel.

Music On The Peninsula

By Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The Monterey County Symphony's second concert of its thirteenth season culminated, after a dress rehearsal at Fort Ord and a concert at Salinas, in a presentation at King Hall of the Naval Postgraduate School that proved to be another advance in musical accomplishment. Director Gregory Millar chose an entire Brahms program for this occasion.

A symphony chorus brought together by Millar made possible the two vocal works given, The Song of Destiny and The Alto Rhapsody. For The Rhapsody, the Fort Ord Chorus made an excellent tonal background which offset the beauty of Jean Canada's voice and sympathetic delivery of the solo that rang out into the auditorium with finely directed modulation and feeling for the emotional composition written as a "bridal song" for the daughter of Robert and Clara Schumann.

The Song of Destiny that opened the program was effectively sung by the mixed chorus which powerfully uttered the tragic despair and the final spiritual victory, supported with the orchestral expansion and build-up. In the double concerto for violin and cello and the Academic Overture the orchestra showed to most advantage. Rarely have the strings spoken more clearly, or woodwinds, brass and percussion produced greater co-operation, and the pull out and build up Millar exhorted was responded to by all in the goodwill this harmonious group shows.

Francesco Mazzi, leader of the orchestra, became violin soloist in the concerto and shone with luster in his strong and earnest interpretation, while Robert Grant, replacing at three hours' notice Jean Maguire who was ill, remarkably played the work which until Saturday last he had never played. Unlike most concerti which give prominence to the soloists, this Brahms seems more symphonic in its nature and therefore more difficult of projection. Its strong Allegro and beautiful melodies, especially in the Andante and the lilting Rondo, captivated the listeners who enthusiastically recalled the players. The ovation accorded Millar and the orchestra after the stirring exuberance of the happy Academic Overture was vigorous and sincere and several rose from their seats in respect, which all might have done, to honor the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra and its conductor.

March 16 and 17 will bring the next pair of symphony concerts to Salinas and Carmel.

A number of the audience stayed afterwards to hear a tape recording of the pieces, sure evidence of keen appreciation.

The Paganini Quartet playing at Pacific Grove Thursday night as the second of the Monterey Peninsula Concert Series was exceptional and satisfying performance of the highest musical value. The audience that filled the high school auditorium listened with deep appreciation and enthusiasm. The group which consists of Henry Temianka, first violin; Charles Libove, second violin; Lucien Laporte, cello, and Charles Poidart, viola, probably have no superiors in the sensitive and exacting art of chamber quartet playing.

Of the original group, who at one time lived in the Carmel Highlands, only violinist Henry Temianka remains, the leading spirit of this internationally famous organization provided with Stradivari instruments that belonged to the great violinist Paganini, the reason for the quartet's adoption of the name. One knows of no other quartet so privileged or so deserving of the Paganini mantle. Perfect balance, modulation, nuance and verve made of the famous Emperor Quartet by Haydn, that opened, so compelling in the beauty of its melodic themes and the refinement of its interpretation that the audience was metaphorically speechless! The melody of its Adagio, which became the Austrian National Hymn, is of nobility, simplicity and deep feeling. The unprogrammed second number was announced by Temianka with interesting comments, the one and only quartet by Debussy. Not since I attended chamber concerts (at the Coolidge Auditorium) in Washington have I heard this remarkable work, which flowed forth with all its masterpiece freshness and charm. Mendelssohn's D major Quartet made a brilliant classic-romantic finale. Nurtured on Bach and Beethoven, the genius, who, at sixteen years of age produced his mature work of A Midsummer Night's Dream, remained true to the fundamentals of harmonic development no matter how romantic his feelings, and a rendering of his music is always accepted with joy in its purity and cially at their Wednesday meeting to transmit to the city council but it is doubtful if they will make a recommendation.

The 11 "fair" sites:

The city property at the S. E. corner of Junipero and Fourth, which fills most of the requirements except that of central location and level site, according to Smith.

Property across the street, on the S. W. corner of Junipero and Fourth, which has the same advantages and disadvantages.

Fifth and Junipero, N. W. corner (location of slot-machine ice box); same disadvantages.

Sites in the residence district: Fourth and Dolores Streets, S. W. corner; North West Corner of Lincoln and Fifth; Girl Scout House, Sixth and Lincoln, N. W. corner; East side of Junipero south of the Presbyterian Church. With the exception of the latter, they are all narrow streets.

Monte Verde and Seventh, N.W. corner, same objection, a 50 foot street.

Eighth and Mission, N. E. corner; Eighth and Mission, N. W. corner; East side of San Carlos at Eighth. Nearness to Sunset School was offered as an objection to these sites, with topography and limited space added to the N. E. Eighth and Mission corner. (Boy Scout Property.)

Members of the audience suggested that the city let the post office department hunt up its own site, but Chairman George Willox said it was a local responsibility and the city should assume it.

The post office department will not put up its own building but leases premises built for it.

Fresh, Newly Cut Christmas Trees On Lions Lot Saturday

Carmel Lions Club members open their Christmas tree sales lot Saturday morning for the fourth year. Originators of tree sales for community betterment and youth projects, the Lions will again sell trees, garlands, wreaths and sprays at their parking lot at Ocean avenue and Junipero street beside the Carmel Theatre from 11:00 o'clock in the morning until 6:00 o'clock in the evening every day until Christmas.

On sale Saturday will be Montana Noble firs, the old-fashioned Christmas tree, at prices less than 50 cents a running foot. On Monday silver tip firs will be offered at competitive prices. Garlands, wreaths and sprays will be redwood arrangements.

Charles Seaver is chairman for the Christmas tree sales project. Lions Club members will make the sales to the public.

Among community betterment projects sponsored by Lions Club funds is the baseball field at the High School. Carmel merchants four years ago, at the request of the Lions Club, agreed to turn Christmas tree sales over to the service club in order to raise funds for Lions Club-sponsored community and youth activities.

Joan Willicombe, Jennie Hill Lead First Quarter H. S. Honor Roll

Thirty-three percent of the enrollment at Carmel High School "made" first quarter honor roll, released today, or 195 of the 585 students achieved a minimum of six points needed to qualify. Point system allows two points for an A, one for a B; D in any subject, other than physical education, disqualifies the student, and F puts him beyond the pale.

Results by classes follow the seniority system this quarter. Since 41 per cent of the senior class qualified; 36 per cent of the juniors, 32 per cent of the sophomores, and of the freshmen, who apparently haven't quite caught on yet, 25 per cent.

As for individual achievement, Joan Willicombe stands in glorious isolation at the top of the roll with 14 points.

Jennie Hill enjoys a niche by herself with 13 points.

There are seven 12-pointers: Gay Antoncich, Barbara Cooke, John Durein, Sharon Heisel, Frank Palmer, Ethel Prowell and Jon Raggett.

Mary Purvis, Susie Sparrow, Marilyn Swim, Elizabeth van Loben Sels, Barbara Viljoen, Ciji Ware, John Wilkin, Nicki Wilson and James Willcox.

Nine points: Sue Bennett, Lois Blackman, Warren Chapman, Jaime Colome, Gordon Douglas, David Farr, Janet Fehring, Claudia Frisbie, Katy Fry, Billie Fritsche, Michael Graham, Beth Graves, Mat Laky, Stephanie Liese, Ellen McKelvey, Lee Oleson.

Business Association Meeting Tonight, Rowe New President

Jim Rowe will preside over the Carmel Business Association Annual Dinner tonight at Highlands Inn. He was elected president of the association at a board of directors meeting Monday noon. Gladys McCloud is new vice president and Rollo Payne, secretary-treasurer.

Lloyd Weer is outgoing president; Mr. Rowe moves up from the vice presidency and Mrs. McCloud was this year's secretary-treasurer.

Tonight's 7:30 o'clock dinner will be preceded by a cocktail party, starting at 6:00 o'clock.

Mayor John Chitwood is scheduled to speak on city administration as it affects the business community. Dale Leidig will report on the activities of the association for the past year.

Milton Pleased With What He Sees On The Peninsula

Under Secretary of the Army Hugh M. Milton stated the Army is highly satisfied with the operation at both Fort Ord and the Army Language School in a press conference at the Monterey Naval Air Facility, prior to his return to Washington last night.

The under secretary, speaking of the Army Language School, said that there should be an average of 400 more students attending the school for it to operate at peak efficiency. The school not only prepares personnel for key overseas assignment but also helps the Army's objective of making its members bilingual, he stated.

The Combat Development Experiment Center stationed here was praised by Under Secretary Milton for having "a forward look" in the develpment of new concepts in tactics and techniques for the Army of the future.

The Army officials arrived on the Peninsula Monday. Besides inspecting Fort Ord and the Army Language School, Mr. Milton also visited the Army facilities at Lompoc and Hunter Liggett.

logic. In response to the enthusiastic recalls, two extra numbers were played — a Mendelssohn scherzo and a Borodine piece which was used in Kismet and has been heard on juke boxes. Adding to the success of the concert were better acoustics achieved by a platform in front of the stage. From this the finest pianissimos were clearly heard.

Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau Proves To Be Outstanding Lieder Singer

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

Seldom has the Carmel Music Society presented a program so highly specialized and with such a narrow appeal as the recital of German lieder by Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau last Tuesday evening. The lieder-lovers are a group as exclusive and dedicated as the followers of barbershop quartets, though neither group cares to be mentioned in the same breath as the other. Fischer-Dieskau is an outstanding lieder singer. He has a baritone voice of unusual range, splendid resonance and fine mellowness even in the upper register. It would be a pleasure to hear him sing almost anything, but why should an entire program for a subscription audience be devoted to lieder by two German composers any more than to arias by one operatic writer, or one group of French art songs?

If one is to hear a program of lieder it would seem more effective if the work of several composers were presented, offering contrast and comparison. But we heard the work of only two composers, the Schwanengesang by Franz Schubert and Schumann's Dar Dichterliebe. These are difficult songs to perform effectively, and it is interesting to study the subtleties of the piano part which is of more significance than the conventional accompaniment. A restrained style seems more appropriate to this form, since it is essentially a recitation in dramatic form with a musical background. Granted the premise on which the program was conceived, it was certainly excellent of its kind. The singer employed a subtly varied style, passing easily and smoothly from gaiety to sombre melancholy, from martial aggressiveness to affectionate cajolery. The music of these songs contains more variety and sweep of imagination than does their subject matter. Introspective, self-pitying and generally disappointed love is the basic refrain. I find it easier to enjoy the music if I allow my imagination to clothe it with a subject matter of my own creation. The results are sometimes surprising. What appeared to be a breath-taking narrative of struggle and suspense will sometimes turn out to have been only the lachrymose introspection of a jilted lover.

Fischer-Dieskau has one of the most controlled and effectively produced vocal tones I have heard. His tone was remarkably open, despite the number of consonants with which every German singer must struggle. Throughout the short program I wanted to hear his fine voice set free in some really open lyric expression. But this was not to be. The songs have dramatic qualities, and these were certainly expressed, but in a definitely restrained, rather highly refined manner. If we could have heard one or two arias in which the singer's voice was more fully released, I think the lieder themselves would have been more effective through the emphasis of contrast.

Gerhard Albersheim at the piano was highly effective. The subtle interweaving of the piano part with the vocal line in these songs makes it of more than usual importance. Mr. Albersheim maintained sensitive balance with the singer without dominating the voice at any time. The audience responded with enthusiasm to the program, attesting not only its appreciation of Mr. Fischer-Dieskau, but also its recognition of first rate performance of a highly specialized art form.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

Ruth Galvin Thornburg, Librarian

So you are one of the lucky ones who is going to Mexico over the holidays! There is still time to dash into the library for a look at Mexico Today by John A. Crow. It is illustrated by 16 pages of photographs. Mr. Crow went about talking to teachers, businessmen, children and housewives, and all of this contemporary information he included in his book as well as a short history of the country and a description of its cities and countryside.

Back home again, you should take a look at the latest book from the editors of Fortune magazine. Entitled The Exploding Metropolis, the material included here originally appeared in a series of articles in the magazine. The book explains and protests against the chaotic overdevelopment of cities today. It calls for long range plans and more consideration for the people who will inhabit these urban and suburban areas.

Another in the spate of books about the Civil War is by A. A. Hoehling, and is entitled Last Train From Atlanta. The action covers the five months' seige of Atlanta, done in the day-by-day manner so popular today. The facts for the book were taken from diaries, memoirs, and letters, as well as newspaper accounts and official reports. Once again let us remind ourselves that this type of handling makes history come alive for us.

Another in the Pageant of History series being done by Thomas Costain is entitled The Three Edwards. The years covered are 1272 through 1377, a little over a hundred, during which the three Plantagenet Edwards ruled England. This is great history, well told.

Modern Russia, by John Long, gives a brief but complete picture of the U.S.S.R. as it is today. In 180 pages the author covers not only the physical description of the country but the economic and political description as well. An appendix lists the names of all the members of the Council of Ministers, as of February, 1957. There is also a helpful bibliography of books for added reading.

A small book with a powerful message is Peace or Atomic War by Albert Schweitzer. This is a logical and devastating argument against the testing of atomic weapons, addressed to the people of the world. When Albert Schweitzer speaks, the peoples listen.

There are eight new novels this week. The new circulation desk is in and working. Being in sections, it is re-arrangable. Being women, we are now mentally trying it out in every conceivable sequence, wondering if it would do better with this section over where that one now is, and so on, and so on. Just like moving the livingroom furniture around, and just as much fun.

Volunteer Services Distributes $6,141 To Local Groups

Christmas came early to a number of Monterey Peninsula organizations when the Monterey Peninsula Volunteer Services, at its meeting last Friday, distributed $2,540 from Thrift Shop profits and membership dues, and in addition, awarded the Country Carnival proceeds of $3,601 to the Carmel Foundation, the Family Service agency, and the USO, the first two receiving $1,550.50 and the USO, $500.

The ten groups receiving year-end gifts were as follows: $500 to the building fund of the Monterey Peninsula Community Hospital; $500 to the Community Chest; $500 to the Committee on Alcoholism, specifically for its activities in behalf of young people; $400 to the Monterey County Symphony Association; $300 for the Citizens' International Students Committee which works with 46 passport students from 16 foreign countries; $150 to the Christmas Bureau; $100 to Monterey College Student Loan Fund; $50 to the Christmas fund of the Monterey County Hospital; $25 to the Carmel Youth Center; $15 to USO staff members.

Thrift shop chairman, Mrs. Boyd Mewborn, reported a net profit for November of $845.26 and appealed for many needed articles before the shop closes for the holiday season on December 19.

Mrs. Roy Page, projects' chairman, announced that May 6, 1959, had been selected for the Spring Garden Tour, and that again Mrs. E. J. Murray would serve as the chairman.

The slate of new officers for next year, announced at the last meeting by Mrs. Wendell Coates, chairman of the nominating committee, was accepted by unanimous vote. New officers are: Mrs. John Simpson, president; Mrs. E. J. Murray, vice president; Miss Clare Kennedy, treasurer; Mrs. Perry Boggess, recording secretary, and Mrs. Harlan Ware, corresponding secretary.

New members introduced were: Mrs. C. Y. Cutler, the Misses August and Gwendolyn De Forrest, Mrs. Carleton Davis and Mrs. Burton Doolittle, all of Carmel, and Mrs. Paul Carroll of the Monterey Peninsula Country Club.

The meeting adjourned for tea, the table decorated with a sparkling tree hung with costume jewelry, for sale at the Thrift Shop.

Arts Commission To Hold First Meeting After Christmas

The newly appointed Carmel Arts Commission were notified this week by City Clerk Larry Rose that, on request of several members, the organization meeting will not be called until the middle of January.

Commissioners appointed by Mayor John Chitwood and approved by the city council at last week's meeting are: Geza St. Galy, Vaughn Shoemaker, Gilbert Boyer, Larry Barretto, Nelo Drizari, Mrs. James (Ruth) Cooke and Maxine Albro (Mrs. Parker Hall).

Vaughn Shoemaker, cartoonist, is the outside-the-city-limits member. Geza St. Galy, a ceramist, represents the crafts; Gilbert Boyer and Mrs. James Cooke, music; Larry Barretto and Nelo Drizari are writers, Maxine Albro, a painter.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The fact that God's care is ever present and ever available will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "God, the Preserver of Man" at Christian Science services Sunday.

Proof of this divine protection is emphasized in the scriptural account of Elijah's sojourn in the wilderness (1 Kings 19).

Passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include this (243:4-8): "The divine Love, which made harmless the poisonous viper, which delivered men from the boiling oil, from the the fiery furnace, from the jaws of the lion, can heal the sick in every age and triumph over sin and death."

The Golden Text is from Psalms (91:11): "He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways."

LESSONS IN RENASCENCE

From birth to death, through every changing hour,
The mortal form of man disintegrates
Upon the ruthless wheel of silent Fates,
To bring to light the source of hidden power.
Untested youth, unconscious of its dower,
Is worn away but, passing, allocates
A richer surfacing which compensates
For fleeting charms abrasive years devour.

A lapidary seeks an unseen gem
Within a core of hard, insensate stone
And, working cautiously, invokes its birth.
The hands of Time employ a theorem
And boldly cut away the useless zone
Until a hidden talent shows its worth.

Each rose which lifts upon a slender stem
Exhaling perfume toward a pointed moon,
Repeats a pattern on the silken hem
Of unworn dreams which day dispelled too soon.
Each star which mirrors in uplifted eyes
Betrays the deep immensities of dark
And offers light for unborn thought which tries
To reach beyond tomorrow's unknown mark.

All beauty, dying, leaves a rainbow ash
Which fertilizes soil for untried seed,
And eyes which see beyond the falling lash
That welts a pain-belabored soul, can feed
Upon eternal loveliness to find
The nourishment of truth which God designed.

The winter's fragile blossoms drift to earth
From darkly branching clouds to lie unmarred
On stony paths where lesser blooms have starred
A summer day with transient scented worth.
Who strains against the years with bitter mirth
Refutes all change when life unfolds the scarred
Cocoon of age and leaves the way unbarred
For spring to fashion auguries of birth.

The frozen lake returns to liquid jade
Where ripples offer creamy cups to tempt
The iridescence of a winging jewel.
Our lives, like purple hyacinths, delayed
In momentary sleep, are not exempt
From lessons taught in wisdom's school.

LAURA JANET LARSON

CLOUD KITTEN

A cloud purrs up the sunrise shore to curl on tufted foam that scallops liquid amethyst with iced wool and with chrome.

Dawn air is creature and caress
for the young cloud beneath, and round soft contours, kindled sun
is chatelaine and wreath.

Now as she drouses, wakening wind gives tongue along day-blue and she bounds inland, where warm fields dissolve white fur in dew.

Sparkle And Appeal In Civic Ballet Performance

BY MAX TADLOCK

Local balletomanes found much to attract them Saturday night at the second 1958 performance of the Monterey Peninsula Civic Ballet Company under the direction of Dorothy Dean Stevens. Many were there not only because they enjoy the ballet but also to give support to the premiere performances of two new ballets written for this company.

The program opened with classic patterns and variations set to Mozart's Eine Kleine Nachtmusik. Alaine Hurlbut and Roberta Tabata assisted by Andy Lynn were featured soloists. The lissome Miss Hurlbut immediately showed the magnetic charm that drew this reviewer's eyes to her all evening, whether she was soloist or member of the corps de ballet. While she sometimes failed to achieve the elevation or ballon that one would like, her interpretative ability and general technical excellence made her the brightest star of the evening.

The second performance was the lively and colorful Cakewalk with the corps de ballet and featuring Andy Lynn and Dave Hardie as The Endmen. Roberta Tabata's pert Perpendicular Points was an audience pleaser.

The third performance Echo and Narcissus was primarily the work of talented male dancer Frank Bourman, who not only danced Narcissus but also wrote the score. Unfortunately, the obvious ability of his partner, the lovely Rosalia Kurowska, was submerged in the uninspired choreography Alexandra Sawicka wrote for Echo. Although at times Narcissus as interpreted by Mr. Bourman was more reminiscent of the aggressive faun in L'Apres d'un Faun than the traditionally self-interested youth of the myth, the interpretation and the music both showed considerable promise. Arrangement of the score was by Walter Kelsey, and the twin piano accompaniment was by Golden Arrington and Ernest Tweedy, Jr.

The Neon Circle, with choreography by Kira Ivanovsky to music by Shostakovich and with costumes and applause-raising set by Donat Ivanovsky, closed the program. A busy bustling ballet in the manner of the Viennese Hotel Sacher, it was successful from all viewpoints.

Mr. Bourman starred as the provincial who is awed by the activities of the big city. Miss Tabata as a film star dazzles him but he forgets her when he meets The Girl danced by Miss Hurlbut. New clothes purchased from Renee Wurzmann, The Fashion Shop Keeper, do not keep him from meeting a yokel's fate, but The Girl rescues him bruised and beaten from the street. In a perfectly delightful scene, they are married with the good wishes of all.

The Ivanovskys and the entire company are to be complimented for a performance well above that of the average TV ballet offering. Fortunately for the Peninsula children (and for some of the oldsters, too), we have a troup which can show them the sparkle and appeal of live ballet. The Monterey Peninsula Civic Ballet Company has earned the support of the community.

Lady Field Builds Museum At Mission, New Home In Carmel

himself in local history many times over, particularly for his work during the diphtheria epidemic of 1812 in Monterey, in which he lost his own two daughters. He performed the first autopsy in California in 1812 at Santa Cruz.

Miss Field, who is living temporarily in the Andrew Russell home at Guadalupe and Serra pending completion of Torre Munras, moved to Carmel after quitting her home, Villa-Munras, on the Monterey-Salinas Highway at Rancho Laguna Seca, part of which she recently sold to the Satellite-Kennedy Corporation.

In addition to Laguna Seca, the family still owns Rancho San Vicente near Soledad, which it originally received as a grant from the Spanish crown.

A harbinger of Miss Field's museum plans for Carmel came as early as 1954, when she made tentative mention of them in her memoirs, Where Castilian Roses Bloom, published that year.

These unique memoirs, like this gracious lady's own conversation and personality, are redolent of scented and wax-sealed letters, curtsies, tiny lace, carriage parasols, victorias and marble mantlepieces. They hold glimpses of well-behaved (but not repressed) children playing with picture cards in deep adobe window sills and of that charming Hispanic triangle—the chivalrous suitor, gentle daughter and vigilant mother.

Miss Field herself has long been interested in preservation of historically valuable property in California and in reconstruction of California missions, in addition to her many welfare, charity and church activities.

Several years ago she was honored by King Alfonso XIII with the Royal Order of Isabella The Catholic. She was the first Californian ever elected to the Institute of Spanish Cultural Arts, of Madrid, and she is a member of the Academy of American Franciscan History of Washington, D. C., and the Junipero Serra Chapter of Native Daughters of the Golden West, besides several other cultural and historical organizations.

She has been instrumental in saving more than one of the Spanish adobes of Monterey for posterity and her family, with the late Dona Josefa Espinosa, were chief contributors toward Carmel Mission restoration work. She has also been interested in the cause for beatification of Padre Junipero Serra.

In addition, she is author of the brochures California Speaking, Copa de Oro and Spanish Pathfinders of California.

Of her recent move to Carmel, she says, "I began to feel too far away from things in the country. And I have always liked Carmel."

She added, however, that she plans no change in her mode of life, which includes social activities here and in San Francisco, visits with many friends in this country and abroad and continuation of her church and historical work.

A special feature of both new structures will be placement in the exterior decor of the Munras coat of arms, now being prepared at the Telavera Tile Works in Spain.

Besides the medical equipment of Dr. Quixano, the museum collection will eventually include a multitude of items of rock crystal, ironstone china, camphorwood trunks and a couple of the old mill stones from the Munras home.

Maria Antonia Field's hereditary connection with early California is well known. Her great grandfather, Esteban Carlos Munras, a native of Barcelona, came here in 1820 toward the close of Spanish regime. However, he refused to take an oath of allegiance to Mexico, an attitude even the Mexicans respected, and founded the Society of Spaniards and Foreigners in California.

Miss Field's father, the late Thomas Field, was co-founder of the Bank of Monterey (which became the Bank of Italy, then the Bank of America) and for 24 years served as chairman of the Monterey County Board of Supervisors. He retired at the age of 80 as manager and vice president of the bank in 1928.

Her brother, the late Esteban Field, was a prominent civil engineer of Monterey County. His daughter, Maria Antonia (Toni) Field, is a popular member of the little theater group on the Peninsula.

Miss Field herself was born at La Granja, which was the family name for what is now the Casa Munras, and was reared in the waning but still dominant Spanish tradition, among a host of beloved great aunts, aunts, grandmother and great-grandmother.

Explaining her reasons for being willing to part now with some of her memorabilia in order to share it with museum visitors, she says she believes "There are many people, even young people, now with a revived interest in history. We can't expect them to appreciate the past unless we show them what we have."

Coskys Back From Australia

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard J. Cosky arrived home in Carmel on Friday after five months in Australia. They made their headquarters in Perth where Mrs. Cosky's relatives live and visited friends in Sydney. Mr. Cosky explored the Australian Mother Lode Country and "caravaned" to other localities. He particularly enjoyed a visit to Darwin on the northern coast.

On their flight home, Mr. and Mrs. Cosky stopped in the Fiji Islands for two weeks. They had planned to spend this entire length of time in Suva but after three days left for Koro Levu which they had glimpsed on their way to Suva from the airport at Nandi.

Koro Levu fulfilled its promise for the Coskys. They enjoyed the coral inlet, sandy beach, fine food and living in a Fijian hut. Even a hurricane didn't spoil the visit.

"It passed within 14 miles of Koru Levu," Mr. Cosky says. "The pawpaw trees were broken and their fruit fell. Bushes and shrubbery looked as though they had been burned with a blow torch. Except for a few fallen coconut palms and lots of blown leaves, which were soon cleaned up, there was no other damage. The door of our hut blew open but we were comfortable."

Chuck, Hazel and Chaco Home

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mohler and their three-year-old son Chaco are back from ten months in Europe. They are living in a house at the corner of Carmelo Street and Twelfth Avenue until their own home is unoccupied.

The Mohlers left Carmel last February in time to be in Belgium for the opening of the Brussels Fair which Chuck covered for Sunset magazine. They stayed in Italy, Austria and Switzerland with Chuck writing magazine and newspaper travel articles. Returning home, the Mohlers were in England for two weeks. They landed in Montreal, Canada, drove to Quebec and through the Gaspe peninsula to New York, then visited Chaco's grandparents in Moorehead, Wisconsin, and Hamilton, Illinois, and arrived home two weeks ago.

Gilberts Return From East

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Gilbert have returned from a two-month visit to Bridge Hampton, New York, where they were the guests of Mrs. Gilbert's mother, Mrs. W. O. Wiley. They also saw their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Quimby, and their granddaughter, Elisabeth Quimby.

Ratcliffs Have A Daughter

First Lieutenant and Mrs. Richard Sewall Ratcliff have a son and daughter since the birth of Kathryn Elizabeth Ratcliff at the Monterey Hospital on November 28. The baby has been named after her paternal grandmother. Her birth weight was six pounds, 11 ounces.

Lieutenant Ratcliff is stationed at Fort Ord with SJAG, the legal department of the Army. His service ends in March and he will return with his family to the Midwest.

Kathryn Elizabeth's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Elwood G. Ratcliff and Mr. and Mrs. Max O. Cullen, all of Lake Forest, Illinois. Her brother Tommy is 20 months old.

Margie And Marci Coming Home

Mrs. George Cain and her daughter Marci are expected in Carmel after Christmas. They sailed for the United States on November 23 and Marci had her fifth birthday aboard ship on Thanksgiving Day. Margie and Marci are spending Christmas in Lynn Massachusetts, with Dr. Arthur Cain, brother of the late George Cain of Carmel, and plan to come West immediately after the holidays. Margie and Marci have been living in France and Italy for the past two years.

Matthew Caleb Tiffany Born

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Tiffany became parents of a second son and third child when Matthew Caleb Tiffany was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on December 4. His birth weight was seven pounds, nine ounces. Matthew's brother Christopher Lynn is eight years old and his sister Patricia Ellen is four.

Mr. Tiffany brought his family here from Detroit six months ago. He is a mathematician with Technical Operations, Incorporated.

Matthew's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Willis N. Tiffany of Los Angeles and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Moritz of Mountain Lakes, New Jersey.

Frans And Hans To Meet In East

First Lieutenant Frans Doelman has been visiting his mother Mrs. Johanna Doelman in Pebble Beach this week. He has been stationed with the Air Force for the past few months in Merced but flies today to Clinton-Sherman Air Force Base in Oklahoma, his new station.

Before beginning his duties at Clinton-Sherman, Frans hopes to spend several days in New York with his twin brother Hans, an engineer with Firestone Engineering Laboratory here. Hans is in New York for three weeks sent by the Firestone organization.

Both Frans and Hans graduated from Carmel High School in 1951 and were members of the football and basketball teams.

Guitarists Play At Big Sur

Kay Aspin and Terry Britten, Carmel guitarists, gave an informal concert last week at the Coast Gallery-Big Sur. The guests were delighted by the versatility of their program which opened with a sea chanty and ranged through Spanish, French, American and Slovakian folk songs, and included classical selections from the sixteenth century. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Fleenor, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Johnson, Dr. and Mrs. Mallett, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Welch, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Jones, Mr. and Mrs. George Choley, Mrs. Mary Crile and guests, Mrs. La Verne Allen, Miss Holly Fassett, Lou Perkin, Douglas Madsen, Bob Simon, Eric Barker and Richard Allen.

Beattie Family Report

Mrs. Douglas (Virginia) Beattie is an ardent admirer of her first grandchild, Douglas Spence Munsinger, born in the Alta Bates Hospital in Berkeley on November 28. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Lee Munsinger (Helen Beattie). Douglas will come to Carmel for Christmas with his grandmother then, with his parents, leave for Eugene, Oregon, where his father begins a three year study project for his Ph. D. degree in psychology.

First Lieutenant and Mrs. William Simpson (Genia Beattie) are back in the United States. Lieutenant Simpson is stationed at Tynsdale Air Force Base in Florida after a year's duty in Germany. They will not be home for Christmas.

Back in Carmel after a visit in Europe and a tour of Italy with the Simpsons is Mrs. Beattie's third daughter, Tricia. She is rehearsing for the Studio Theater production of Time Remembered. "Cynthia is just going to school," says Mrs. Beattie of her fourth daughter, a sophomore at Carmel High School.

City Hall Replacement

Mrs. Eleanor S. Shepherd is to replace Mrs. Orville Jones as stenographer on City Clerk Larry Rose's staff. At present Mrs. Shepherd is working with Mrs. Jones who leaves city hall at the end of this week.

Mrs. Shepherd is the mother of three children, Chris, 14, Laura, ten, and Janet, four years old. She is a graduate of the University of California and has lived in Carmel for three years. She obtained the highest score in both the written and oral aptitude tests which Clerk Rose and Tax Collector Art Plaxton devised to aid them in selecting a replacement for Mrs. Jones.

Tysons Fly From Snow To Sun

Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson found the transition from New York's snappy air and snow to Carmel's sunshine last week a pleasant change. They flew home, arriving on Tuesday, after six months in the East spent in Amangansett, Long Island, and New York.

During the summer Mrs. Tyson studied painting with Victor D'Amico of the Museum of Modern Art who is a member of the Amangansett summer art colony. Both she and Mr. Tyson were occupied adding a guest cottage to their home, the 300-year-old Baker House, which the Tysons spent six years moving from the main street of East Hampton to their 30 acres on the dunes of the Atlantic shore. They have collected old wood for many years with which to build the guest cottage and other additions to the house. These buildings are reproduced in keeping with the Baker home.

The Eastern autumn coloring delighted the Tysons and they enjoyed the first snows of winter during their last month away, spent in New York.

"Fifth Avenue was a fabulous sight decorated for Christmas when we left," reports Mrs. Tyson. "The next day Carmel was just as wonderful in its way."

David Tyson arrives to spend Christmas with his parents on December 18. He is a student at Riverdale Country School outside New York.

Christmas In Colorado

Major General and Mrs. Caleb V. Haynes leave next week for a Christmas visit in Golden, Colorado, with their son and daughter-in-law, Vance and Elizabeth Haynes, and their granddaughter, Lisa, two and a half years old.

Vance Haynes is studying for his master's degree at Colorado School of Mines. General and Mrs. Haynes plan to return to Carmel at the first of the year.

Godwins Have Second Son

Mr. and Mrs. William Godwin now have two sons. The younger, Michael Frederick, was born at the Peninsula Community Hospital on December 6 exactly two years, three months and a day after the birth of his brother, William Harrison Godwin, Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Frederick of San Francisco are the Godwin boys' maternal grandparents. Mrs. Frederick is in Carmel at present staying with her daughter and son-in-law. A telegram sent to Paris told Harrison Godwin, owner of Pine Inn, that he had a new grandson. Mrs. Audrey Willet Godwin arrives fom San Francisco on Saturday to see her son's new child.

The baby has been given Frederick for his second name in honor of his uncle, Fred Godwin, owner of La Playa Hotel, at present away on a hunting trip and unaware he is an uncle again. "But I've left messages everywhere," says the new baby's father, Bill, "Fred will get the news as soon as he arrives home."

TYPEWRITER, RECORDER DISAPPEAR FROM H. S.

The Sheriff's Office received a report from Carmel High School Principal Warren Edwards that a standard Underwood typewriter and pentron recorder were missing from Room 3 at the school on Wednesday morning. No trace of the missing articles had been found by the Sheriff's office this morning.

Nina Terrill

Mrs. Nina Huffman Terrill died on Tuesday in a San Francisco hospital after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Terrill was born in Missouri on September 2, 1878. She lived in Fresno before moving to Carmel Point six years ago. Her home was situated at Bayview Street and Inspiration Way. Willard W. Terrill, her husband, died in 1949.

Survivors are a son, Milton W. Terrill of Fresno, and a sister, Mrs. Leona H. Todd of Los Gatos.

Funeral services, conducted by Dean James M. Malloch of St. James Episcopal Church of Fresno, were held this morning in that city.

Toys Needed For Xmas Bureau

Donations of usable toys will be appreciated by the Xmas Bureau, an organization set up to see that no Peninsula family has a dreary Christmas. The toy shop maintained by the Xmas Bureau will be open on December 18 and 19 from 10:00 to 4:00 o'clock and on December 20 from noon until 4:00 o'clock. During this time parents with an authorized letter may select toys for their children from the donations and have these gifts appropriately wrapped. Any person with toys to donate may telephone Mrs. Clifford Melton, FR 2-8354 and the donations will be picked up.

Food will also be distributed by the Xmas Bureau. Carmel American Legion members are helping with collections. On Monday the Carmel Woman's Club collected 225 packages of food and $17 for Xmas Bureau work at the club's Christmas dessert-bridge party.

Ready to move in and live until you are ready to build your main house or this cottage could be rented to bring in enough to cover the monthly mortgage payments.

SPECTACULAR VIEW

This Del Monte Forest home in Pebble Beach has just been substantially reduced as owner is most anxious to sell. It has two large bedrooms, two nice baths, living room 24 x 30, separate dining room and garden patio. Attached is a guest apartment with a bedroom, bath, breakfast bar and large living room. Both units have a lovely ocean and mountain view. Asking $48,000.

MOST ATTRACTIVE 2-BEDROOM, 2 BATH COTTAGE

THIS HOME is on a 60'x100' corner lot about 3 blocks from the beach. The baths are tiled. Other features that make this cottage above average are central heat; shake roof; sunny, protected patio; light, cheery kitchen, with large nook; and an attractively low price of $23,500. Exclusive.

3 BEDROOMS, 1½ BATHS, 4 BLOCKS SO. OF OCEAN, $15,950

AND BY GOSH, the house isn't half bad, either. It has a large living room, a big dining room, central heat (of a sort), an easy level walk to town, and EVEN A LITTLE PEEK AT THE OCEAN. The bedrooms are upstairs.

LOTS ARE GETTING SCARCER AND SCARCER, BUT

HERE ARE A FEW that are well worth considering as they're priced right. CARMEL HILLS, 0.41 acres, 136' frontage, $4,800. Exclusive. PARADISE PARK, almost a quarter acre, $6,500, exclusive. RANCHO RIO VISTA, with magnificent valley view, $6,500. CARMEL POINT, right on Scenic Drive, with fantastic views and half an acre of land that can be divided, $65,000, exclusive. COMMERCIAL IN LOWER CARMEL VALLEY, 70x150, $7,750. Very large R-4 parcel, $40,000, CARMEL MEADOWS, valley and some ocean view, $6,000. We have many others, too.

Angels Have Second Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Marcus Angel have a new daughter, Dana Lee, born at the Monterey Hospital on December 5 with a birth weight of six pounds, 13 ounces. Dana's sister Sidney Lynn is 14 months old. Her father has been on the Carmel Post Office staff for the past two years.

All of Dana's grandparents have come to visit her. Her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Carolyn C. Cooper, left for her home in Los Angeles on Tuesday and the same day Dana's paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Angel, arrived from Los Angeles.

Henry Miller Writes Commentary For Sur Fashion Show

Internationlly known Partington Ridge author Henry Miller has written a commentary on fashions for the showing of Jon Sabater creations at Nepenthe on Sunday.

"Men are hopelessly reconciled to wearing the uniform of the pallbearer. Women have still a modicum of freedom . . . at least in the revelation of their charm and grace," says Mr. Miller in his opening remarks. "Jon Sabater," he continues, "says that every woman, whether she's as fat as a pullet or skinny as a bean pole, has a touch of femininity which could be revealed to advantage if one studied her nature. He is not concerned with revealing a shapely leg or an awesome bosom; he wants to set a style for honest to goodness Womanhood."

Sabater-designed clothing will be displayed at Nepenthe on Sunday evening by 15 models from the Big Sur region. Mr. Sabater lives at Big Sur. He has, so far, only created clothes on special order.

Schmidt-Phillips Baroque Concert Here Friday Night

Christopher Schmidt and Robert Phillips will present their second concert of Baroque music at Carmel's Woman's Club tomorrow evening at 8:30 o'clock.

The program for which Schmidt plays the violin, Phillips, the viola, includes works of Forqueray, Vivaldi, Leclair and Teleman.

Christopher Schmidt, born in Jena, Germany, has lived in Basle since his early youth. His extensive background in the performance and theory of music led him to accept the position of Assistant to the Director of the Schola Cantorum Basiliensis. He and Robert Phillips have collaborated on many projects in England and Switzerland, especially playing baroque music and presenting concerts of medieval music.

Phillips, born in Carmel, has broadcast as soloist on the viola de gamba for French, German, Austrian and American radio. London Musical Times stated: "Mr. Robert Phillips distinguished himself by the roundness of his tone, the crispness of his tempi, and the purity of his intonation."

Tickets are available at local music shops or at the door Friday night.

Carmel Hill Freeway Bids Opened Today

tions which require the restriction to one 12-foot traffic lane for the direction of traffic involved. All road connections will remain open to traffic at all times, with traveled-ways equal to the existing roadways provided for public traffic.

Work will be in three stages. The first consists of constructing detours to allow for construction of the bridge and portions of the ultimate northbound lanes and connecting roads. The second stage consists of routing traffic over the new detours, then construction of the remainder of the northbound lanes and temporary detours on the present connecting roads to allow for completion of the new traveled ways.

During the third stage, through traffic will utilize the new northbound lanes while the ultimate southbound lanes, bridge access ramps, and connection roads are completed. At the completion of this stage, the new Cabrillo Highway lanes will be opened and cleanup activities and other minor work will ensue.

All detours and transitions will be well marked and traffic routed and controlled by the use of flares, flagmen (during working hours as necessary), and reflectorized wooden barrier barricades. Motorists are urged to exercise caution while passing through the construction area due to the frequent proximity of construction personnel and equipment to the traveled way.

It is anticipated that this freeway project will be completed by June, 1960, barring unforeseen weather or working delays.

Blanks Reports On Adams Plan Study

Herbert Blanks gave a progress report to the planning commission yesterday on the chairman's committee study of the city officials' precise zoning map. (Adams Plan.)

The work to date is tentative and Blanks recommended that the commission hold a study session with the city officials on the proposed modifications.

Building Inspector Floyd Adams recommended that the get-together be postponed until after Christmas.

Blanks recommended three zones, a transition zone between business and residential; a commercial-service zone encircling the third zone, retail business core of the city. He suggested three "precise zones" for La Playa Hotel, Pine Inn, and the wedge between Mountain View and Ocean Avenue, permitting rebuilding for substantially the same uses if the structures were destroyed by fire.

instrumental ensemble, including a recorder, at the High School Christmas student assembly on December 19. The student body will join the choir in carol singing and the public is invited to the program.

The choir, quartet and ensemble appeared at the P.T.A. area council meeting in La Playa Hotel this week. This afternoon they are featured at the meeting of the U. S. Navy Postgraduate School Officers' Wives Club.

GRASS FIRE CALL

Carmel Fire Department extinguished a grass fire at Third and Monte Verde Streets on Wednesday afternoon. Answering a still alarm at 12:32 o'clock, firemen found a rubbish fire on a vacant lot had got away and ignited grass. Mrs. Jetta Gabel was the owner of the property. A burning permit had been issued for the rubbish fire. There was no damage.

building site, Morse states in his demurrer.

Walsh brought his suit against the mayor and the city in a cross complaint and answer to a suit Miss Barnes has brought against him charging "fraud and deceit" in the sale of the lot, and asking $5,000 damages. In his answer and cross complaint he states that responsibility for informing Miss Barnes that the lot is not a building site rested with Miss Youngberg, who was acting for "herself and an undisclosed principal" in the sale. He asks $50,000 damages against Miss Youngberg for a statement she allegedly made at the July 9 hearing, when she denied knowing that Walsh had previously been denied a building permit for the lot and asked, "Why should you condemn this lot rather than the man who formerly owned it?"

Miss Youngberg is not a party in the suit against Walsh in which Miss Barnes asks $5,000 damages.

to take action at a council meeting, have agreed to assign as much of the lot as the youth center needs, provided enough space is left for a driveway to give Torres street access to the city corporation yard.

Carmel's Youth Center, with improvements valued at $90,000.00, not including value of land it occupies, was built by donations of money, materials and labor of Carmel townspeople and civic organizations. The Crosby Fund donated $18,000. The auditorium is the gift of the Lucie Stern Memorial Fund, and came to the youth center through a fire and page display in the Pine Cone. Walter Haas of San Francisco, a trustee of the Stern Fund, was at Tassajara at the time of the 1949 fire. He bought a copy of the Pine Cone for the picture and account of the fire and found in the same issue a page display of architect elevation and floor plans of the Carmel Youth Center. He informed the Youth Center board that money could be made available from the Lucie Stern Fund for the auditorium, and it was.
